1910 and 1911

Last year at this time Southern Alberta presented a most sunburned appearance. Everywhere was evidence that Old Sol had held sway for long. Everything was as dry as the proverbial bone. And last year, too, there had been but little snow in the mountains.

Therefore when the heat of summer came on, long before its time, there was not sufficient water in the streams to allow of the winter's cut of saw-logs being brought down from the timber belt to the sawmills in the plains. Between the crop failure and the closing of the mills there was a noticeable financial stringency in the country. Even the real estate dealer felt the pinch of hard times. Nothing was normal. But this year all is changed. On the trail of the long dry summer came a long hard winter, with much snow and intense cold. For nearly a week the C. P. R. main and branch lines were tied up by the snow. This was in January, and thereafter the railway had continued trouble from the same cause.

Then came the spring, and with it a more than usual amount of rain. To-day the streams throughout the country are full. "Logs are beginning to come down from the mountains. Mills are in full blast. The crops never looked better. "Hope springs exultant in the human breast," and the speculator lays his plans. It is probable that this year of grace 1911 will be far the most prosperous that the province of Alberta has ever known.

Cows Must Be Fitted to the Dairy
The true dairyman does not rely upon high prices alone to win for him a paying success, but he seeks for it cows of a greater productive quality, the securing of greater crops, of kinds and sorts that reduce the cost of feed and varieties that best combine to produce milk, the sorting of the cows as to milk production and ability to consume and utilize the food, and more the finding of where the feeding limit and profit part company.

Great manufacturers now employ "systemizers," and if something of that sort were done in dairies it would be found that there is no real adjustment of conditions. Too many cows are not fitted for the dairy; the care is not in harmony with a cow's requirements as a dairy animal; good and poor cows are all fed alike; there is not a well balancing of the rations as to composition; no regard is being paid to digestibility and palatability of the ration, climatic conditions are not taken into account or sanitation, and the food is too largely used for bodily support because of restricted amounts, and its composition is not of balance, too largely on one or the other side of the requirement, and often of material which the cow cannot digest; as in the case of field wintered corn fodder and musty stack hay. It has been said that it is about impossible for a man to buy a herd of common bred cows, picked up largely in non-dairy sections, and make of them a profitable dairy, and where cows are so purchased to "fill in with," one buys five cows to get a possible production of three even fair cows. In this one finds a very large reason why the dairy does not pay; nor will it pay until the fact is realized that profitable cows are only such because they have been bred along the lines of milk production. By mating of dairy qualities by men who have mastered the truth that cows can be bred for milk with as great assurance and certainty as one can for speed or strength or certain qualities of wool.

Another thing comes in here—the neglect to comprehend the fact that the environments of a cow must be uniform as to protection and feeding. A cow must have what amounts to twelve months of summer weather, with few radical changes, and for the bulk of her food she needs succulence.

These include a swell appointed stable with plenty of sunlight, continuous change of air, a clean bed and sanitation from end to end of the stable. Good blood, out of which good milk is made, can only be manufactured from fresh, pure air, with its oxygen supply uncontaminated. The stable must and can be made to do its part in making cheaper milk, or, rather, milk at lessened cost.

How can the feed bill be lessened? Of course, the reply will be: "Raise more home grown crops." True. The suggestion is to raise more silage, so that in addition to the winter feeding one may have so much that summer pasture shall be of little dependence after July 4th. Raise alfalfa, raise oats and then another field of silage corn. Cheap feed is the most that can be raised from one acre, reckoned by digestible dry matter; and no other crop comes anywhere near to silage. Fed right, nothing else comes as near taking the place of high priced grain in the summer as silage, made from well cured fodder. Compare the cost of a bushel of silage with eight pounds of purchased grain.

If the thing is carefully looked over, a large percentage of the cases where it is claimed dairying does not pay is traceable to ill considered ways and methods of collecting a dairy and trying to harmonize many conflicting elements that enter into its make-up; too low an average of milk, not close enough enquiry into the matter of feeds, not "systemizing" the business and in not making the whole matter a study, but considering it an industry that will run itself.

Power From Potatoes

Cultured potatoes will be furnishing the power of the gang plow and the engine on the farm before many more years go by. A bushel of culled potatoes is worth 56 cents. Turned into denatured alcohol they would be worth 72 cents. The process of extracting the alcohol is not one that every farmer can carry on, but the alcohol is there all right.

Alcohol is produced by the fermentation of sugar. Potatoes contain starch that may be converted into sugar by the addition of malt and then fermented. The potatoes are steamed until the starch is cooked thoroughly. Then the malt is added. When the starch has been converted into sugar a yeast mash is added and weak.

Wm. Hecklin of Kinondoni, who has been visiting friends here for the past week, returned home on Saturday.

Chas. Latham's brother arrived from England last week, and up to the present he is well pleased with the West.

Mr. McKay of the Provincial Telephone Dept., was in Cayley Thursday getting contracts signed up for village phones.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, who have been rustication at the home of Mrs. E. McCombe of Granum, are again in our midst.

Mrs. D. McNiven of Yellow Grass, Sask., has been visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs.
Crawford, for the past few weeks.

Mr. Saucy and son, of High River, were visitors in Cayley on Monday. Messrs Saucy & Dovey have 1100 acres in crop this year.

We regret to say that Mrs.
Chas. Nelson, who is in the High River hospital, is not improving as fast as her friends would wish.

The Rev. J. M. Beaton goes to Clarendon on Thursday, where he takes part in the induction of the Rev. Mr. McNichol, the new Presbyterian minister of that town.

A number of the young people of the district took in the Frankfurt celebration on Monday. A kind of sports were participated in, and the day was thoroughly enjoyed.

We notice that two of our progressive farmers, H. E. George and John Lucas, are shipping their cream to Calgary. There is nothing like a good herd of cows to make money.

The Presbyterian picnic which was to have been held on Tuesday last, was held on Thursday, and although the attendance was not large, they report having had a very pleasant time.

Mr. Frank Hicklin is again in our midst, renewing old acquaintances. We understand Frank is now contemplating going eastward where he will fit on a homestead and pre-emption.

Rev. Mr. Mann left on Monday morning to join his wife and family, who are still in Bentley (Northern Alberta). We expect to have them in our midst by the end of the present week.

Chas. Phillips and Oliver Grant took in the sports at the Woodmen's picnic on Thursday and carried off nearly all the prizes. Phillips won five firsts and two seconds. Grand won three firsts and three seconds.

There will be reception for the Rev. and Mrs. Mann on Wednesday, Aug. 2nd. Also for Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Scragg, the latter couple returning from their honeymoon tour about that time. Let us all turn out and give all a very hearty welcome.

The grading of Railway St. is almost completed and reflects considerable credit on the council for doing such an excellent job.
Brothers of the other business thoroughfare, don't be envious, your turn will come by and by.
Then you will fire hall and go Large orders are being given for harvesting machinery, and binders are being received by dealers in carload lots, but labor supply is still a problem. The government authorities and rail-the effort to bring in sufficient help for the west.

Alex. Nabilo, the firm of Caspell & Nabilo, has returned from Lethbridge, where he was looking after the firm's business, having purchased one of the leading boot and shoe stores in that city. The Hustler joins in wishing the first great success in their new enterprise.

and 29-33.

The Anglican Deaconry of High River will be convened at Gladys, a few miles north-east of High River, on July 27th and 28th. The Rural Dean, Rev. R. D. Stamer, rector of the church of St.
John the Evangelist, Clarendon, will preside. Rev. Wilkinson, the present incumbent of Clares-holm parish, will attend the sessions of the Deaconry.

It is reported that one of our largest ranchers near here has his teams cutting hay on Sunday.
This may look clever to the rancher, but to the average citizen it shows poor management. It looks as though the job is too big for the man when he can't find time during the six days of the week for such work. Remember you're in Canada now, not in U. S.

It is the general impression that considerable gambling is indulged in around town. A farmer claims to have been relieved of some of his money in a game recently by a card friend.
Some of our citizens remark that it is some time since Cayley went in for a clean-up, and say that unless this intimation is heeded there will soon be one. A word to the wise should be sufficient.

While strolling Esther afternoon, After air and such.
We noted on the Cayley route That skating wasn't much.
Hot weather and showers are the order of the day, So come and enjoy yourselves for a week

In the Cayley summer resort on Mosquito Creek.

Come and see Cayley grow.
The Editor of the Hustler had the pleasure of travelling through some of the surrounding country the past week. Talk of bumper crops. Cayley, we can safely say, is one of the best grain districts in Alberta. Just come and be convinced. For a certainty it cannot be beaten.

There were only a few Cayley-ites at the Woodmen's picnic at High River last Friday, but there was no doubtting their presence, for they carried off almost every prize going. It is too bad that there were no entries for the horse events, as it would have been quite easy to find both horses and boys in the Cayley district to make all that took part really work hard if they would win. Apart from the scarcity of Cayleyites, the picnic was a good one, there being an immense crowd, all of whom appeared to thoroughly enjoy themselves.

Already, with the fear of a coal famine this coming winter before their eyes, some of the farmers south of this place are hauling wood from the Hills. It is a serious situation to face, this fuel shortage, and the "powers that be" should be given no rest until the danger is removed from the foreground of probability. If the laws at present appearing on our statute books do not admit of the settlements of such grave difficulties other than by the slower process of greed outlasting greed, it is time some of our statesmen should drop theoretical legislation in favor of the more practical.

Hymeneal
It has come to pass that a certain young lady
From a country destination Has changed her maiden appellation To a name more becoming,
And has changed her habitation.
To a different situation.
In fact a little nearer by location, And became the near relation Of the man in hardware speculation, Who in daily expectation Has awaited the solemn pronunciation, Which has in their lives produced an alteration,
To which happy combination We extend our hearty congratulations.
